125 Beach Road

Scratby, Great Yarmouth

Scratby

Beach Road in the coastal village of Scratby is a quiet, residential street that runs close to the shoreline, offering easy access to the village's stretch of sandy and shingle beach. Local amenities include a small convenience store, a café, and a takeaway cater to everyday needs, while larger supermarkets and more extensive shopping facilities are a short drive away in Great Yarmouth or Caister-on-Sea. Families have access to nearby primary schools, and secondary schooling can be reached in surrounding towns by car or local bus services.

Transport links are practical for everyday life: buses connect Scratby to Great Yarmouth and neighbouring villages, and road connections via the A149 and A47 provide straightforward routes toward Norwich and beyond. Life on Beach Road tends to revolve around the coast and community, with opportunities for daily walks along the beach, cycling on quiet village roads, and enjoying the pace of a seaside village without the bustle of a larger resort town.
